recruit ONYOMI: BO Your mom was recruited to sell opium because she's so strong, she can keep the block locked down all by herself if need be. KUN: つの * る to raise funds, solicit contributions (for a magazine ,etc.), to find workers or soldiers. *	make a living ONYOMI: BO Your mother makes a living by selling opium every day! KUN: (で) く * らす This doesn't correspond to any English word. Maybe the closest phrase is, "To lead one's life." Homeless people, retirees, and rich divorcees all 暮らす even though they don't 稼ぐ. It means "to live in a place" as well as "to do all one's daily junk(eating, sleeping, hanging out)." 暮らす is usually used in sentenceslike, "over 30,000 people are living in the city." or "Live on $20 aday," or "She had an easy/hard life."
desert BETA ONYOMI: BAKU Welcome BACK TO the desert, motherfucker! All us scorpions and vultures missed you! medical patient BETA ONYOMI: KAN This is basically the loyalty kanji (忠)TWICE - one on top of the other.So you could say, Genghis KHAN was admitted as a patient to the hospital. Since he depended for his life on the doctor, he was DOUBLE LOYAL to the doctor. KUN: わずら * う to suffer from (an illness or physical problem)	loyalty BETA ONYOMI: CHUU You're so loyal I could kiss you CHUU! Your loyalty makes you central to my heart.
insizsect ONYOMI: CHUU Insect is middle plus a line at the bottom, which for the purposes of this mnemonic, we'll call a "stinger."So you can say, Put some insects in the middle of your mouth and CHEW. Later use their stinger as a toothpick. MMMM!!! ごちそうさまでーす! KUN: むし insect *	friendship ONYOMI: CHUU Friendship is what is in the middle of people. Holding them together. KUN: なか:the extent of one's friendship (as in, 仲がいい or 仲が悪い)
mosquito SOLO ONYOMI: Mosquitoes are the bugs this sentence is about. KUN: か mosquito (蚊に刺された! (かにさされた!) = I got bit by a mosquito!) *	snake SOLO ONYOMI: A snake is like a scaly bug that would bite the crowned king on his heel. KUN: へび snaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaake *
PK, MR DESCRIPTION: That's what the textbooks say, anyway. . . although I have no ideawhy! It's easy to remember though, so I'll roll with it. (it seems likemost of the kanji involving butts, farts, or pee have this, so maybethat is the origin?) Anyway, think of it as a dude that died and his upper body toppled over, while his legs are standing up due to rigor-mortis.	make noise ONYOMI: SOU The horse made SO much noise when all its crotch-bugs bit it at once. KUN: (に) さわ*ぐ Make noise. As in, road construction noise, and also as in high schoolstudents laughing at dumb shit at the next table. Most commonly used inthe phrase: ギャーギャー騒ぐ (no particle needed)

administer BETA, STRONG ONYOMI: SHI SHE administers Hitler's Moustache with her little scissors.	cylinder /pipe ILL PAIR ONYOMI: TOU He keeps using that same bamboo cylinder to suck his TOES. KUN: つつ usually defined as pipe but more accurately, it means cylinder. Chimney, exhaust pipe, drainage pipe, gun barrel, canister, are all 筒. (BOOBOO: unlike the related kanji 管 (tube), which can bend, 筒 is always straight).
part of speech BETA ONYOMI: SHI SHE uses parts of speech very well, for a girl. When we say things, parts of speech administer the syntax.	formal visit / question JERK, SOLO, F ONYOMI: SHI SHE is a person who makes formal visits (i.e. a diplomat) KUN: うかが * う formal visit (only used by the lower person who is visiting the upperperson) Also formal way of saying "ask" (ditto: lower to upper) (F) *
trip ONYOMI: RYO We're all sleeping in the same van this trip, so you gotta Regulate Your Odor. When we go on a trip in that direction, we bring a rifle to shoot hitchhikers. KUN: たび a trip *	PK DESCRIPTION: imagine a person on the left, holding out their arm and thumb (on the right), hitchhiking.
vein BETA ONYOMI: MYAKU Yo Mama's so old, she has more purple veins in her breasts than MY YAK has in its whole body. Veins are an organ that allow your blood cells to hitch-hike all over your body.	faction/bling JERK, BETA ONYOMI: HA HAHA, I laugh at your faction! Bloody splitters! Watch video That faction wants to hitchhike to the water, but our faction wants to hitch a ride to the cliff.
